Colors and Forms of Nature

Jane Forth lives in rural Northern Virginia. The beauty and rich natural environment of the Blue Ridge Mountains are a source in her paintings. Working in heated pigmented wax, she brushes, pours and carves into successive wax layers, often revising color and form while painting. In completion, the solidified luminous surfaces of wax have been given depth through this process.

She exhibits her work at Middle Street Gallery, Sperryville, Virginia, Fredericksburg and Washington DC. She is a member of Women's Caucus for Art of Greater Washington DC, International Encaustic Artists and Encaustic Art Institute. She has a BFA from the University of Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts.
