

Susan Raines

Susan Raines spent many years as a free lance photographer doing magazine and newspaper work in Atlanta, Washington, D.C. and London.

She also taught photography in the Journalism Department at the University of Maryland and worked at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, Art Services International, two commercial art galleries and at the National Endowment for the Arts.

Susan photographs with a 35mm Nikon and with an iPhone. She has been experimenting with photography apps on the iPhone and likes the unpredictable results. She prints her own photographs on an archival printer and frames them using conservation glass.