RAAC Newsletter January 2017 Update

Hello friends,

Welcome to 2017! RAAC typically publishes a combined December-January newsletter that is emailed in early December. Our next full newsletter won't arrive in your inbox until early February, but we want to alert you to several events happening soon. Please have a look below. I'm confident you'll find occasions to entice you out of the house, engage your mind, feast your eyes and ears, and warm your spirits as you gather with friends.

*Cheers,
Matthew*

First Friday at the Movies

"Love & Friendship"

A narrative of duplicity, desire, and fortune-hunting zips along, propelled by Lady Susan Vernon, a charmer and schemer played with verve and precision Kate Beckinsale. When she is not keeping illicit company with the handsome, silent, and emphatically married Lord Manwaring, the nearly penniless Susan is looking for a pair of husbands, one for herself and one for her daughter, Frederica ... At times, "Love & Friendship" is howlingly funny, and as a whole it feels less like a romance than like a caper, an unabashedly contrived and effortlessly inventive heist movie with a pretty good payoff.

Second Friday at the Library

Jane Livingston, speaker

One of the nation's leading art curators, Jane Livingston, who lives in Flint Hill, was the associate director and chief curator of the Corcoran Museum in Washington, DC for many years. Her newest book is on the acclaimed American artist Richard Diebenkorn, whose work Livingston has long championed.

Over the years Livingston presented some fifty major shows, on topics from African-American folk art to National Geographic photography to the work of Richard Avedon to Hispanic art. In 1989 she curated a show on the controversial photographer Robert Mapplethorpe. When the Corcoran canceled the show, Livingston resigned in protest.
