

Look & Listen

Hello Friends!

Here are some more local artful events to enjoy.

LOOK

Old Rag Photographers have launched a web site where you can explore new work and enjoy the virtual exhibit, Sunrises-Sunsets.

Gay Street Gallery opens an exhibition today featuring paintings by Martin Woodard and Kevin H. Adams and stained glass by Patricia Brennan. You can see the work in person at the Gallery Friday-Monday (10am-5pm) as well as visit the 3D virtual exhibit.

"Meet-the-Artists" in RAAC's May Virtual Art Exhibit can be streamed here where you can look and listen as John Beardsley interviews some of Rappahannock's finest artists: Kevin H. Adams, Ruthie Windsor-Mann, Linda Croxson, Philip Ward, Ron Paras, Kat Habib & Jen Cable. You can also visit the virtual exhibition.

LISTEN

Sunday Virtual House Concert at 7pm (June 14)—Because We Have Music— will feature more of Rappahannock's finest musicians along with artists from surrounding counties of the northern Piedmont. We're pleased to say this series is supported in part by a grant from RAAC's Mitchell Arts Fund.

Sunday's concert features Michael Shea and Jeff Hamlin who are writing a musical and perform regularly for cabaret shows; Natalia Zukerman who grew up in one of the most renowned classical music families in the world; and hosts Paul Reisler & Cheryl Toth of Kid pan Alley.

The concert is free. Here's the link to register for limited seating in the virtual living room via Zoom or to stream anytime: Virtual House Concert. RAAC is priming the tip jar for Rappahannock guest musicians; please join us by pitching in!

Castleton Festival is offering free streaming of Otello, Verdi's operatic version of Shakespeare's Othello. Reviewers note that it's not about Othello; it's about the character, Iago, the unquestioned villain, an evil figure we should all strive not to be--and to be on guard against. Watch and hear Otello at Castleton.
